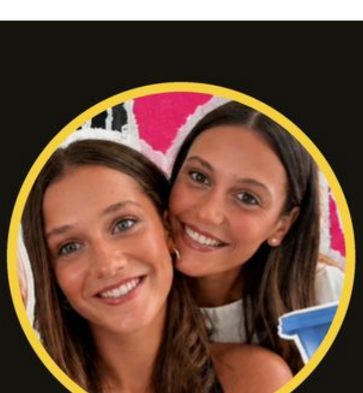
WHAT ARE WE SEEING AROUND THE WORLD THIS WEEK?

Protein cheese snacks scale up.



Alli & Tiff
Eclectic · The Cultured Farmer

Babybel doubled production capacity behind Babybel PRO, its protein and probiotic cheese snack. That is functional dairy snacking moving from test to real investment. In yoghurt, Müller and Myprotein took their pot to 20g of protein. Closer to home, Woolworths copped shopper backlash over its reformulated Colby slices, and Bulla reset its brand around everyday dairy moments.

CHEESE SNACKS US

Babybel doubles capacity behind its protein and probiotic cheese snack

Demand for Babybel PRO, a snack cheese with added protein and probiotics, has led Bel Group to double production capacity.

Why it matters: Protein plus gut health in a cheese snack is now big enough for a global player to spend capex on. That is the space a snack-format Cotti would compete in.

YOGHURT UK

Müller and Myprotein lift their co-branded yoghurt to 20g protein per pot

The UK's biggest dairy brand is deepening its sports-nutrition range with a 20g protein pot.

Why it matters: 20g is becoming the protein number to beat. The Cultured Farmer should win on culture, texture and taste rather than chase the biggest number.

CHEESE AUSTRALIA

Woolworths' reformulated Colby cheese slices spark shopper backlash

Changes to the slice count and size of Woolworths' own-brand Colby slices have triggered public debate.

Why it matters: Shoppers notice when own-brand dairy changes. A brand that promises consistent quality has a story to tell the cheese buyer.

COTTAGE CHEESE CANADIAN GROCER

Cottage cheese keeps riding TikTok, now with a savoury twist

Cottage cheese recipes (tacos, dips, baking) are still causing store shortages, and 'savoury-maxxing' snack plates are trending alongside them.

Why it matters: Demand for Cotti's category is still creator-driven. Savoury serves and recipes are the next content angle.

PROTEIN DRINKS FOODBEV

Orgain launches a 30g protein shake made with a2 milk

Orgain has added an a2 milk-based RTD shake with 30g of protein per serve.

Why it matters: a2 plus high protein is a formulation benchmark for any Cultured Farmer drink.

MILK DRINKS FOODBEV

Splyt adds a limited-edition banana protein milk

Protein milk brand Splyt has added a limited-edition banana flavour to its RTD range.

Why it matters: Limited flavour drops keep a protein dairy range feeling fresh between core launches. Easy to pay homage to with Cotti.

FORMATS DAIRY BUSINESS MEA

Arla Foods Ingredients to show a clear yoghurt and a carbonated milk drink

Arla's ingredients arm will showcase a transparent yoghurt format and a sparkling milk drink concept.

Why it matters: A look at where dairy formats could go next, well before they reach the chiller.

GREEK YOGHURT FOODBEV

Yeo Valley Organic adds fruit flavours to its Greek yoghurt range

The UK organic brand has added new fruit flavours to its Greek-recipe range.

Why it matters: Premium yoghurt still competes on everyday flavour variety, not just protein or gut claims.

PROBIOTICS DAIRY BUSINESS MEA

Kenya's Brookside Dairy launches two probiotic yoghurt flavours

The East African dairy major is adding gut-health positioning to its yoghurt range.

Why it matters: Probiotic claims are now expected even in emerging markets. The Cultured Farmer should make its cultures specific, not generic.

AUSTRALIA INSIDE FMCG

Bulla resets its brand around everyday dairy moments

Bulla has launched 'Life's Fulla with Bulla', a brand reset built on everyday moments and traditions.

Why it matters: A local dairy competitor is investing in warmth and familiarity. Worth knowing as The Cultured Farmer sets its own tone.

AUSTRALIA INSIDE FMCG

Coles slips behind Woolworths as cost-of-living pressure bites

Woolworths posted $19.4bn in quarterly sales, up 4.7% on its value push. Coles' growth lagged, even with e-commerce up 22.9%.

Why it matters: Value is winning the dairy aisle too. Go into range reviews with a clear price and pack-size story.

Pay homage to: pack & design

YOGHURT PACK THE DIELINE

Yogg's protein yoghurt breaks the 'black means protein' rule

A bold paper-cut-effect wordmark on a vibrant dark blue background.

How we'd use it: Pay homage to it by signalling protein with bold colour and type, not gym black.

KEFIR PACK PROFOOD WORLD

Nomadics Kefir ties its pack to a Caucasus origin story

White dairy-style bottles with hand-illustrated Caucasus Mountain imagery on a bold blue label.

How we'd use it: Pay homage to it by telling The Cultured Farmer's culture story through one specific, authentic illustration style.

MILK PACK PACKAGING OF THE WORLD

Elsie's Organic Milk leans into heritage

A pack redesign built on heritage dairy-farm cues and organic positioning.

How we'd use it: Pay homage to its farm cues if The Cultured Farmer leans into provenance.

Full Stop: protein + fibre yoghurt

$3.20 · 170g / $7.50 · 4x110g

A thick Greek-style yoghurt with 15g protein and 6g fibre per pot (chicory inulin and oat fibre), no added sugar, live cultures. Vanilla Bean, Strawberry, Passionfruit and Natural. Positioned as the most filling pot in the fridge, for GLP-1 users and shoppers who have already done protein.

High protein is a sea of sameness in the yoghurt fixture. Fibre gives a new reason to trade up. Lactalis has launched ratio Pro Fiber in the US, and nearly 500,000 Australians use GLP-1 medicines each month.

Pack idea: A big '15 + 6' lock-up on the lid in a calm, almost pharmaceutical layout, not gym black, so it reads as fullness rather than bodybuilding.
